Representatives from 50 Bombardier dealerships from across the province were treated to a taste of the great 'ski-dooing' that is offered in Haliburton County last week. The dealers were at the PineStone Inn Tuesday evening and took to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association trails for a full day of sledding Wednesday.

OMB chairman stems delays

The potential for another lengthy delay on the start of a proposed hotel complex in the north end of Minden was nipped in the bud Thursday, when the chairman of an Ontario Municipal Board hearing discovered an oversight and suggested a quick solution.

The municipal solicitor and planner were caught off guard when hearing chairman J.H. Wheler noted that a shortage of properly zoned frontage on South Water Street could further delay the development proposed by John Stainton, former owner of the Brown Owl restaurant.

At the tail end of a three-hour hearing in the Anson, Hindon and Minden council chambers, Wheler dismissed the complaints from three neighbouring property owners. However, he noted that nothing could be built on the triangulr piece of property unless 200 feet of properly zoned frontage could be established.

Although Stainton plans to purchase an abutting parcel of land from the township that would increase his frontage to more than 200 feet, this property was not included in the rezoning application. Therefore, the door was being left open for yet another OMB hearing should there be complaints against the rezoning of that parcel.

Wheler's recommendation that this additional piece of property be included in the initial rezoning application was quickly agreed upon by solicitor Fraser Rogers and planner Marion Town.

After almost a year of waiting, John Stainton's plans for a modern hotel complex in Minden are ready to roll. The development of his property in the north end of the village was given the green light by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Board to lose two trustees

The next municipal election could see two fewer trustees serving on the Haliburton County Board of Education. The change would be the result of the passage of Ontario Legislature Bill 76 which changes the basis of representation from assessment to population.

The members of the board were told Tuesday night at the regular meeting, that passage of the bill is expected and the new criteria would be in force for the municipal election this fall.

The new criteria would mean that only full-time county residents would be counted in determining the number of trustees on the board, and the areas they represent. The present use of assessment hence the tax base, meant that areas with large numbers of cottages and few permanent residents receive a stronger representation on the board.

The change would mean that some townships would have to combine their representation under one trustee. The board has yet to assess the impact of the new criteria and ascertain where the changes might occur.

Driver injured when steering seizes

A 50-year-old Minden man was rushed to hospital in Lindsay following a snowmachine accident on January 16.

James Howe was injured when the snowmachine he was driving malfunctioned, causing him and the machine to strike a tree. he was sledding in Stanhope Township when the driveshaft assembly on his machine seized, sending it out of control.

Minden OPP Constable Ron Buchanan investigated the crash.

Trail map would have helped

An OPP helicopter was called in to help in the search for a missing man last week. However, the local OPP snowmachine crew had located the man before the chopper joined in the search.

A copy of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association trail map would have come in handy for a 32-year-old Windsor man who lost his bearings last Sunday and spent the cold, damp night in a cabin southwest of Minden.

Jay Golden was snowmobiling with two others in the area of Anson Mountain on January 24 when his companions decided to return to Minden. Minden OPP reports that Golden continued on alone and lost his way on the trails.

Trying to find his way back to town, Golden veered from the maintained trails, and while sledding through a marsh area, his snowmachine broke through the ice and sank into about three feet of water.

Soaked to the waist, he began walking and eventually came across a cabin, where he bunked down for the night.

On Monday morning an OPP snow vehicle patrol was called out to search for the missing man. In addition, a helicopter was called in from Toronto to assist.

A few moments after the helicopter arrived in Minden, the snow vehicle patrol located Golden in good shape walking on Black Lake.

Sale of Risk's prints to boost Polio Plus

The Rotary Club of Minden is giving area residents an opportunity to own a piece of art which will be presented to the Queen later this month.

Haliburton artist David Risk will present his painting of a loon family to Her Majesty the Queen at a function in Toronto. The fund raising effort is sponsored by the Don Valley Rotary Club.

The club has ordered 2500 prints of the Risk painting and will be offering these for sale for $195 each. A majority of the funds raised will be used to support Rotary International's Polio Plus campaign, a world-wide effort to immunize children against polio and four other diseases which claim countless lives each year.

Minden Rotary Club member Gerry Rome will be taking orders for these prints. "With very little publicity, the orders have been coming in surprisingly fast," Rome commented. "Anyone interested in receiving a print, should do so quickly," he added.

Rome noted that all the prints will be signed and numbered by the artist. He points out as well that the Haliburton artist will add a second signature on the back of the prints sold through the Minden and Haliburton Rotary Clubs.

Individuals interested in ordering a print should do so quickly with Gerry Rome, manager of the Minden branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Call 286-2991.

Patience pays off for Stainton

OMB gives green light

John Stainton's dream of building an attractive hotel complex in the north end of Minden is one step closer to reality after an Ontario Municipal Board hearing dismissed complaints against the development Thursday.

Stainton, the former owner of the Brown Owl Restaurant has had his plans set back by almost a year while waiting for the OMB to hear complaints from neighbouring property owners. And now that the complaints have been dismissed, he can proceed with his plan.

Stainton plans to build a 38-room hotel complex with banquet facilities, an exercise room and a small pub on his 5.7 acre property. The triangular property is located behind two restaurants and the OPP detachment on highway 35. It is also bordered by a number of homes and businesses on South Water Street. It will have parking for at least 125 cars and the main entrance will be from South Water Street.

"Haliburton County, as a whole, lacks overnight accommodation," said Stainton. With a growing tourist trade in the area, Minden also has a shortage. He feels his property is an ideal setting for this sort of development because of its proximity to highway 35 and the village centre. He also noted that there is easy access to municipal sewer and water services.

Thursday's hearing in the Anson, Hindon and Minden townships council chambers dealt with complaints from three property owners. A fourth complaint was withdrawn a day before the hearing when a report contracted by Stainton indicated that the neighbourhood would enjoy improved drainage when the development is completed.

Walter Sawyer, who owns property on South Water Street adjacent to the development site, raised alarms over noise, traffic safety and drainage problems he believes will be created by Stainton's hotel. Shirley Hewett,a resident of Teesdale Street also expressed concerns over increased traffic along her street as a result of the project.

Stainton, who had obviously done his homework, assured the board that all these concerns are being addressed in his plans. The study that he commissioned on the drainage of the area concluded that the neighbourhood would, in fact, enjoy better drainage once the development is completed. Regarding the concern of increased traffic on Teesdale Street, he said that access to the hotel would only be used for emergency purposes. Some form of gate would be installed to prevent his customers entering or leaving the hotel via that street.

Municipal roads superintendent, Clayton Cameron, addressed the concern of traffic safety at the South Water Street access to the hotel. He told the board that he has met with the area representative of the Ministry of Transportation and together, they concluded that there is no problem. The driveway entrance would have to meet both ministry and municipal approval before a permit could be granted.

Hearing chairman J.H. Wheler dismissed Sawyer's concern of increased noise. "Traffic noise is not a problem," he said. Any increase in traffic noise created by the hotel would be nothing compared to the noise generated by the estimated 1,500 to 2,500 cars that pass along South Water Street each day. He also noted that the noise from nearby Highway 35 would be considerably worse than that caused by cars going to the hotel.

"The development of these lands for a motel use is entirely appropriate," Wheler concluded. However, he did recommend that the individuals who had lodged complaints should be allowed to provide input into the development of a site plan agreement between Stainton and the municipality.

It was like a showroom on ice as representatives of 50 Bombardier dealerships from across Ontario came to PineStone Inn last Wednesday. Everyone gathered on the frozen pond in the morning before heading out on the trails for the day.

Ministry cuts local representation

At the moment there are 15 members on the board, 14 to manage the affairs of the Haliburton County board and one representing the interests of Roman Catholic students in the Cardiff area who go to school in Bancroft. The new criteria would reduce that number to 12 plus the Roman Catholic representative.

The trustees were told that under the proposed legislation, the board could authorize the election of two additional trustees. These two additional seats would be allocated by the same criteria used in assigning the original trustees. However, once the board approves the extra trustees, the seats must remain for at least two elections.

The trustees were told the province appears intent on passing the bill and they should be prepared to deal with the consequences of the changes before the next election.

Pay hike approved

The Haliburton County Board of Education has endorsed three wage settlements. The agreements were approved at the board's regular meeting Tuesday night.

The board endorsed a contract with its employees who are members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees. The two year agreement provides for a 4.5% increase in the first year and an increase based on the change in the cost of living plus one percentage point. The contract, which has been ratified by the union members, is effective January 1 of this year.

The contract includes terms similar to those agreed to by the board's elementary and secondary school teachers.

The board has endorsed a similar salary increase schedule for the office staff. The agreement also covers two years.

The board has also set the salary for the Superintendent of Education, a post recently created by the board. According to the agreement reached at the board level, the first year for the new superintendent which begins in August, will follow the grid for the high school principal, plus $4000. In the second year, the salary rate will be according to the high school principal grid plus $2000.

The board was also informed that formal approval for the creation of the Superintendent's position and the hiring of Dale Robinson to fill it has been received from the Ministry of Education.

Road a disgrace

While the weekend's warm weather was a treat for those participating in the outdoor events of the Winter Carnival, the effect of the temperature drop to the roads in town made for some very poor driving conditions.

The section of Bobcaygeon Road that has yet to be hard topped is an absolute disgrace. Traffic can be seen travelling up along the sidewalks to avoid the horrible pot holes that are so evident now that the snow is gone.

Poor driving conditions in this area are understandable since it is in the process of being rebuilt. However, there are other areas in town that are getting just as bad.

The section of Main Street up toward the highway has pot holes large enough to do some serious damage to a vehicle. If this is any indication of what our roadways are going to look like in the spring, we're in trouble.

We realize that this is not the best time of year for patching up roads, but something has to be done soon.

It's just too bad repairs weren't made before this weekend. People who came to town for the carnival must have left with a poor impression after hobbling along our roads.

Congratulations

Congratulations are in order for the Minden Kinsmen and Kinettes for putting together yet another entertaining and successful winter carnival this past weekend.

Although the weather was anything but wintry, the carnival with its many activities helped maintain some excitement in the village at a time of year when most people are wishing the snow away. This is the sort of event that helps us shrug off the mid winter blues. Instead of sitting indoors dreaming of being in some warmer part of the planet, people were out and about in Minden, making the best of this time of the year.

We're looking forward to the 33rd annual winter carnival next winter.

Our new kitten is, alas, not a mouser. When the mice race through the kitchen and in between the sink and the cupboard, she watches with mild interest, and then, galvanized into action seconds too late, runs to peek behind the refrigerator at a vanishing tail.

Perhaps I'll have to send her out for lessons with the best mouser in the neighbourhood. We are on the edge of a wooded ravine bordered on one side by a field which runs down in a steep slope to a small creek. Most days recently, in the late afternoon, a red fox, sometimes alone, sometimes with a second fox, lopes along the open field keeping close to the swath of longer grass that runs along the edge of the ravine. Sometimes it stops, pricks up its ears, stalks forward as though on tiptoe and then freezes. Coiling itself like a spring it leaps high in the air, coming down with forepaws together. Sometimes it tosses a small body into the air, and, leaping again with forepaws together, sticks its muzzle into the snow and retrieves its prize, a meadow vole.

Vulpes vulpes, the red fox, is in the family Canidae, or dog family, which is in the order Carnivora or carnivores. When it has a thick winter coat and a really fine brush, the red fox appears much larger than it is - 20 - 25 inches long, and weighing 10 - 15 pounds. Favouring a varied habitat of open space and woodland, this clever hunter is often a closer neighbour than we believe. If we are alert and use our senses, we may find clues to its presence.

Its tracks in the snow with four toes and claws in front of a small heel pad, can be distinguished from dog tracks by evidence of perfect stepping. There is no foot drag and a sense of

Preserving the ruins

'I am inclined to notice the ruin in things, perhaps because I was born in Italy."

Arthur Miller

Well, my last name isn't Miller and I never got to snuggle up to Marilyn Monroe, but aside from that, the playwright and I are practically identical twins on the subject of ruins. I love 'em too - probably because I was born in Toronto, where old buildings are considered pornographic, something to be torn down and rendered into parking lots as quickly as possible. I don't think I got to see a proper ruin until I was about 25 and went hitchhiking across Europe. Never could keep my mouth quite closed at places like Stonehenge and Cordoba and the Roman Colisseum.

Heck, I didn't have to go that far back. I could sit in a seedy old pub in some one-lorry town in the English countryside playing the rubbernecked colonial as I drank in the sagging roofbeams, the crazily canted floorboards, the ancient bric a brac on the walls that may not have been dusted since Cromwell's time.

It was a thrill to realize that Sam Pepys, Chris Marlowe, even Bill Shakespeare himself might have sat at that self same stool, staring into a similar overpriced pint of warm draught ale.

It was never very hard to tell the locals from the tourists - the locals always ignored the relics that surrounded them.

I remember passing through a tiny hamlet in Kent and spying the strangest tower I have ever seen.

I think it was a tower. It stood, or rather, it leaned, on a bare patch of ground right in the centre of the hamlet. Architecturally it looked like a very young child's first experiment with clay, except that it was about 20 feet tall and obviously very old - there was moss growing up one side of it and here and there the butt ends of rotting timbers poked through it's flanks. What made the tower totally incongruous was the door at the base of it. It was a perfectly fashioned wooden door with a wooden purposefulness in the trail. Its scat, 2 - 4 inches long and pointed at the ends often contains hair and bits of bone. Also the fox's scent marking is skunk-like. but has been described as "more pungent and less offensive." This scent is present in all fox urine.

An opportunist, the red fox will not pass up any easily available food, but the main item in its diet is the meadow vole. If the deep snow covers the vole tunnels, the fox may turn to other food sources like rabbits, deer mice, and carrion. In summer, it consumes large quantities of insects and wild fruit.

The fact that our fox travels sometimes with another fox is an indication that mating time is approaching. This may occur any time from late January to March. Likely the pair has been looking over possible den sites in the ravine. They may take over an abandoned groundhog den. However, until the den is needed for the young, the foxes will likely bed down for the day in an open spot, preferably on a south-facing slope.

Foxes are largely nocturnal, becoming active a couple of hours before dark and hunting on any night as long as necessary to obtain a meal. This time of year, our fox appears around 4 p.m., loping easily across the snow-dusted grass. So far winter has been kind and it pounces often on unfortunate meadow voles. Life inside is also easy, and our kitty feels no need to pounce.

Ruins loved to death

jamb - except that it was no more than three feet high. An adult would have to get down on his hands and knees to enter.

I stood and looked at that tower for as long as I could bear it, then I did what any dopey, gawking tourist would do - I went into the nearest pub, ordered a pint of bitter an in my best, uninterested tone asked the barkeep what the tower outside was all about.

"Wot tower would that be, sorr?"

And this I swear is true: I had to take the bartender to the window and point out the erection that was not thirty feet from his door.

"Oh, THAT" he murmured, massaging a wattled jaw, "I don't really know, sorr ... H'it were always there..."

I suppose you could become that blase, growing up in a land choc a bloc with antiquities - maybe it's a healthier attitude than the undue enthusiasm we North Americans exhibit toward what some wag called "civilizations fallen arches".

It may very well be that in our zeal, some ruins are being "loved to death". The famous prehistoric cave paintings at Lascaux, France have been closed to the public - carbon dioxide from tourists' breath was causing the pigment to fade and disappear.

Similarly, tourist traffic at Stonehenge in England has become so intense that a couple of years ago there was talk of hanging up a "Closed" sign and erecting a duplicate site nearby.

It would look exactly like Stonehenge except the slabs of rock would be made of plastic.

Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed - but I wonder if it would have worked? I wonder if tourists would have flocked to photograph a polyurethane Clonehenge? After all, we flock by the millions to Disneyworld and Canada's Wonderland and what are they but mountains and jungles and castles of plastic?

And then there's that recent bulletin from federal historians in Ottawa - the one asking Canadians to send in any old photographs they might have of the ruins at the country estate of former prime minister William Lyon Mackenzie King.

You may remember that at great expense the slightly dotty King imported the remains of European turrets and battlements, then scattered the rubble around his Kingsmere estate outside Ottawa in an effort to make the place seem more Old Worldish.

Problem is, those ruins are getting ... well, ruined. The original crumbling arches and mouldering walls are crumbling and mouldering beyond recognition, and the historians hope they can work from old photographs to restore them to their original err, um, ruinous condition.

Well, it may seem whacky to you and me, but I'm sure Mackenzie King would understand.

Shattering the myths of hunger

By Rev. Ed Moll

As part of the effort from various churches to raise awareness of the issues related to world hunger, I will be sharing with you for the next two columns a summary of ten common myths associated with hunger.

The program called "Ten Days For World Development" will take place from January 29 to February 8. In view of the impending famine in Ethiopia, the conflict over land reform in Central America and the Philippines, and our own domestic agricultural crisis, I encourage the readers to inform themselves about an issue that affects us all: food.

Source: "World Hunger: Ten Myths" by Joe Collins and Frances Moore Cappe.

Myth One: People are hungry because land and food are scarce.

Not so! Even in the Third World food crisis of the seventies there was plenty of food to go around - enough grain alone to provide ample protein and 3,000 calories a day for everyone - not counting beans, roots, fruit, vegetables, etc. Moreover, adequate food - producing resources exist in countries where people are most hungry.

However, these resources are underused or misused to meet the demands of those who are already adequately fed. There is a gap between what countries actually produce and what they could produce. For example. people farm less than half of the world's arable land. Grain yields in developing countries are less than half of those in industrialized countries. Land harvested once yearly could provide two or even more crops.

In most cases desert and drought do not cause scarcity. Rather, it is the undemocratic control of the land and food distribution, and the lack of political and social will to change that control which prevents people in these countries to grow their own food.

Myth Two: There are too many people to feed.

On the contrary, countries with less people per square kilometre of farmland often have the highest malnutrition rates. The problem of hunger has less to do with the amount of land than with who controls it and how it is put to use.

Rapid population growth does have long-term effects, but it is a tragic diversion to attack high birth rates without attacking the root causes of poverty.

Myth Three: Producing more food will overcome hunger.

If you believe scarcity is the cause of hunger, it is natural to think that producing more food will solve the problem. Government policies of giving top priority to methods and technology that increase food production have not worked over the last 30 years. This is because policy makers in the first world have given little thought as to how such methods and technology would affect the vast majority of the local rural population. A tractor will not work on a rural farm in a developing country if gas is too expensive, if there are no roads, if spare parts are not readily available, if people need intensive and long-range training to maintain and repair that tractor.

Moreover, when this kind of inappropriate technology enters a society where there is a great difference between the rich and the poor, the rich will benefit, since they are in the ones with access to land, money, credit, and political influence.

Myth Four: To achieve food security we must rely on large land holders.

Studies made around the world from Thailand to the United States found small farms to be far more productive than large farms. In the case of Thailand, plots of two acres yielded almost 60 per cent more rice than farms of more than 140 acres.

Why: Small landholders have to make the most of the little they have to survive, whereas large landholders do not use the land as well because their food does not come directly from the land they own.

When multinational corporations take up farming, they actually contribute to hunger: the small landholders and the landless get progressively cut out of production as the newly enriched large landholders expand and mechanize; the national market for food is depressed through the resulting impoverishment; and the corporations then turn their production to high-paying city-dwellers and export markets.

Myth Five: We will have to use more pesticides than they did 20 years ago, they have lost twice as much crop before harvest. The conclusion? Pesticides are inefficient and dangerous.

There are many environmentally safe and effective alternatives to chemical pesticides: crop rotation, mulching, hand weeding, collection of pest eggs. These could make use of a country's most valuable and least-used resource - its people.

Members of the Minden Figure Skating Club were hard at work improving their technique last week in preparation for "Meet to Skate", the first skating competition the club has sponsored in about six years.

Great response to club's first meet

The Minden Figure Skating Club will be sponsoring its first competition in at least six years, and so far, the response to the event has been outstanding, says Toni Carr.

About 120 skaters will be putting their skills to the test on the Minden ice during the 12-hour competition on February 7. Skaters will be coming from a variety of clubs in southern Ontario for the invitational meet. There will also be many local and area skaters competing.

When the club started planning for the competition, they expected to have about 50 skaters involved. That target has more than doubled, and Carr says the response is "just marvellous".

She hopes that this will be the first of an annual competition to be held in Minden. Judging by the response to this first meet, she says it will likely be run over two days in following years.

Except for one very high catagory, every level of skating will be represented at the meet. Ten judges will be coming in to keep score, as well as three Canadian Figure Skating Association accountants to monitor the placings. Carr also notes that there will be three dance teams and two pair teams in the free skating competitions.

The invitational meet is designed to raise funds for the local club, and everyone is welcome to come out and watch the activities. The competition begins at 8 a.m. and runs until 8 p.m.

Editor:

Winter can be a drag. A time to go where it's warm, a time to den up, or a time to get out there and enjoy!

Those of us living in the Highlands do have many opportunities to enjoy winter. Our thanks to local resort owners of Locarno, Wig-a-Mog and PineStone for giving us the opportunity to enjoy swimming in the winter, through the classes sponsored by Sir Sandford Fleming College Winter & Spring Courses. Presently 'Aquacise' (exercises in the water) is being held three mornings a week at the PineStone, and we are very grateful for the use of their facilities.

Hall's steals first place

The season-long struggle for first place in the Minden Men's Recreational hockey play was finally settled last Monday when Halls Insurance rallied in the second frame to knock The Times from their throne.

With all 14 regular season games now history, Halls and The Times have a matching 11-win, three-loss record. However, Halls captures the first-place position because of the team's impressive goals for and against average.

Going into last Monday's game, The Times had a two point lead over Halls. However, Halls erased that lead with a 4-2 win over The Times in the opening game of the night.

In other action Monday, Vasey Insurance lofted itself from the basement by earning a 10-10 tie with the Rockcliffe to pull one point ahead of Home Hardware. The final game of the night saw Home put in a strong performance but come up short against Hartwick Construction.

Halls 4, Times 2

In a highly-competitive and exceptionally clean game, Halls poured on the steam in the second frame to notch three goals. The two teams had battled to a scoreless tie after the first period of play. And although The Times had its chances in the second frame, it was Halls that did all the scoring.

The Times came back with two goals in the third period, but Halls scored one of its own to finish with the win.

Scoring for Halls were John Barkwell, Rod Finlay, Greg Anderson, and Ken Casey. Times goals were scored by Rodger Schandlen and Dave Dollo.

Vasey 10, Rockcliffe 10

Two late goals in the final frame earned Vasey a 10-10 tie with the Rockcliffe in the second game of the night. The tie was enough to move Vasey into fifth place at the end of the season.

Norm Barry led the scoring for Vasey with a hat-trick. Jerry Campbell scored twice, as did Dean Hewitt, and Daryl Ward. Kevin Hamilton added one to the effort.

Bernie Upton was the top goal scorer for the Rockcliffe with three. Al Cunningham and Merv Mintz each notched two, while singles went to Brian Marquardt, Lawrence Lougheed and John Fedeski.

Hartwick 8, Home 6

A disappointing third period cost Home their chance of upsetting Hartwick in the final game of the night and forced them to settle for last place at the end of scheduled play.

After two periods, Home had a surprising 4-3 lead over the high-scoring Hartwick club. However, Hartwick outpaced their opponents five goals to two in the final stanza to steal the game.

Dave Hartwick ended the regular season with another hat-trick, while teammates Murray Beetlestone and Irwin Asbell added two each. Rick Salmon added the final goal to Hartwick's tally.

Greg Carpenter matched Dave Hartwick goal for goal to lead Home's scoring drive. Singles for Home were scored by Doug Schell, Ben Manuge and Carl Northey.

The standings

	P	W	L	T	GF	GA
Halls	22	11	3	0	97	42
Times	22	11	3	0	91	62
Hartwick	18	9	5	0	134	99
Rockcliffe	13	6	7	1	116	124
Vasey	5	2	11	1	96	153
Home	4	2	12	0	70	128

Hall's Dave Rogers (88) was in hot pursuit of this Times forward during the final game of the regular schedule last Monday night. Although the Times held a two point advantage going into the game, Hall's pulled off an upset to steal the top spot with a 4-2 score.

Cy, the "Silly Goose", unlike most of his kind, has decided not to fly south for the winter, instead he has made himself very much at home on Horseshoe Lake and has graciously adopted his human neighbours who have the privilege of seeing is is well fed and cared for.

Two grants approved

Two applications for federal funding by the Haliburton Forest Owners Association have been given approval in principle.

The federal grants of $30,510 and $13,992 have been recommended by a joint federal-provincial task force. The Ministry of Natural Resources will also provide $20,396 to the first project and $22,254 to the second.

The grants are for job-creation projects under Section 38 of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Thin ice

Erratic temperature patterns this winter have made for questionable ice conditions on many area lakes, and Minden OPP is recommending that snowmobiles stick to land trails.

This advice comes after three snowmachines and their drivers went through the ice at the narrows on Eagle Lake recently. Police report that all three drivers got out of the water safely.

Redmen need to earn win

With just five games remaining in the schedule, the HHSS Redmen hockey team has some ground to make up if it is to win a berth in the playoffs.

With a record of five wins, six losses and a tie, the Redmen are just one point behind Kenner in the struggle for the fourth and final playoff position.

The Redmen's next game is scheduled for February 1 against St. Peter's at the Kinsmen arena in Peterborough. The time for this game is 3:45 p.m.

The Redmen will go head on against Kenner on February 3 at 7:15 p.m. at the Dysart arena. On February 9, the Redmen will be back in Peterborough for another game against St. Peter's at 3:45 p.m.

The final home game of scheduled play is slated for 7:15 p.m. on February 10 against Lakefield. Then on February 17 the Redmen will travel to Campbellford for a game at 1:45 p.m.

'Hundreds of things to do' at Jamboree

Sporting tans and with a suitcase full of dirty laundry, souvenirs and memories, a scout from Minden has arrived back from the 16th World Jamboree in Australia.

Dean Solway, son of Paula and Jim of Minden, spent ten days under canvas in the outback of Australia as part of a tent city of over 16,000 people from 85 countries around the globe. Of these, 14,000 were young people aged 14 to 18 in the scouting movement who had achieved the pinnacle of a scout's ambitions – to make it to a World Jamboree.

Jamboree is a teen dream, mingling youngsters of every colour, language and creed for ten fun-packed days of action and entertainment. Canada sent 853 in its contingent, the third largest after Australia and the U.S.A.

Says Dean, "there were dozens, hundreds of things to do -- the only problem was finding time, especially for sleep."

On the 400 acre Jamboree site were eleven encampments, each with a mini-theatre featuring daily entertainment provided by scouts from different countries. A large central theatre had nightly rock concerts and other presentations. At other locations, one could learn how to throw a boomerang shear a sheep or dance aboriginal dances, test your fitness on an obstacle course, challenge one of the Guinness records, walk on a water walker, try bike bungle or bush golf - the Aussie version of the game played with large sticks through a course that's a golfer's nightmare.

"I'd like to do it all over again, except in slow motion," says Dean. "It was all great, but best of all was meeting so many people from different countries around the world. We saw their entertainment; visited their campsites and made some really good friends."

A day at Jamboree was long on fun but short on sleep. Typically, the camp started waking up at 6 a.m. with hasty breakfasts cooked over gas camp stoves. Then the teenagers would leave for some arranged activity, such as a trip to Sydney 100 km away or a trip to the beach for surfing and swimming, or to take advantage of activities at camp in weather that typically was sunny with temperatures up to 41 degrees C. The evenings throbbed with native drums, rock music, laughter and singing while cicadas hummed and nightbirds called in the eucalyptus trees surrounding the encampments. Weary Canadians usually went to bed around 12 midnight or later.

An informal Canada Day was declared January 6 when the Canadian scouts presented a hand-carved cedar totem pole to the Australian scouts which remains permanently mounted at Cataract Park, the Jamboree site. There was a pancake potlatch to celebrate and everyone was invited to the party held at the various campsites. "For most people, this was their first taste of maple syrup," says Dean.

Jamborees are held every four years, the next site being the beautiful countryside at Mt. Sorak, Korea. "It was a tremendous experience, one I'll always remember," says Dean.

Donations boost hospital equipment collection

A izable anonymous donation to the Minden Hospit.. nade it possible to expand the hospital's equipment facilities last year and enhance its status as one of the best equipped small hospitals in Ontario.

"With this generous donation, I think the Minden Hospital is probably the best equipped of its size in the whole province," said Bill Kulas, the area's representative on the St. Jospeh's General Hospital Board. The $26,500 donation added significantly to the equipment budget for the year and enabled the hospital to purchase four additional items.

A major interic. renovation to Minden Hospital was carried out in 1983 and since then a constant effort has been made to keep it in good shape with regard both to physical facilities and patient care capability.

Last year the boiler was replaced with two new ones and, for the first time, this provides a standby capacity in case something happens to the first one. In addition to that, the parking lot was paved and a third of the windows were replaced. About $17,000 in total was spent on the building. At the same time, over $10,000 was spent on new and replacement equipment for patient care needs.

This year, about $12,000 went into replacing the balance of the windows and $6,000 is budgeted to bring the kitchen facilities up to date. But the big news is in equipment acquisitions this year. The Hospital's regular equipment budget planned for about $11,000 to be spent on some of the usual things, like a centrifuge, suction machine, file cabinet, washer replacement and such, but an anonymous donor made it possible to purchase much more this year.

This anonymous donor was generous to the Hospital in the past, having provided a new electrocardiograph only a short time ago. A contact from him this year asked what the needs were, and a list of four items was provided, expecting a selection of one to be made according to the donor's interest. To the surprise of all, he totaled up the list and sent a cheque for $26,500 to cover the whole thing.

The Hospital was recently able to add an attachment to the x-ray machine for taking chest x-rays, a new processor for faster finishing of x-ray films, a new volumetric intravenous infusion pump and, also, a television with V.C.R.

Educators ponder space needs

Teachers, support staff, members of the Home and School Associations and board of education trustees will be involved in an assessment of the space needs at Victoria Street School in Haliburton and Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden. The problem facing the board in both committee looking into the accommodate a growing student population.

In Haliburton, the question surrounding the Victoria Street School has an additional element. The committee will be asked to consider not only how additional space will be created at the school, but whether the older school should be replaced altogether. A number of portable classrooms are already in use at the school.

Trustee Len Salvatori, who is chairing the committee looking into the space requirements, said, "Whatever happens at this school, it must happen smoothly and not leave animosity behind."

The committee hopes to have a plan of action to recommend to the board by August.

In Minden, the committee has already had an initial examination of the facility. According to trustee Wendy Ladurantaye, the group has recognized a serious lack of space in the school and a growing Kindergarten population which will be felt through the system as the students advance. Interestingly, she said the committee has identified a lack of "little spaces" areas where a teacher and a small number of students can work without utilizing a full classroom.

The committee hopes to bring its recommendations to the board by June.

Variety is spice of life

by Joan M. Hoad

Variety is the spice of life, they say, and we are certainly getting our share of variety in the winter weather this year. As I write, we are back to winter; those large soft flakes of snow are falling and the trees take on their magical cloaks once more.

One of the benefits from working with arts and crafts is the infinite variety of forms and colour that present themselves as the creations take place. Be it weaving, knitting, potting, painting or writing and so on, these exciting new ideas tumble over themselves to get out once we unlock the door.

Do you remember last year, the sudden entry of our Auntie Clara from England, into the water-colour field at aged 82 years? We received more pictures from her this December and admire her spirit of adventure so much. Haliburton County has so many seniors who are continuing to enrich their lives and the lives of those around them by their ideas and their work, sharing with us the variety in life , we all need and enjoy.

We have heard from two more lively and active people who expect to retire here shortly because of the many opportunities offered by Sir Sandford Fleming College and the Guild of Fine Arts. One friend, a teacher was sent a large selection of flyers, newspapers and newsletters to give her some samples of our activities. What an impressive collection of alternatives it is.

Here are the names and numbers of members who will welcome anyone who would like to visit a guild group and meet the enthusiasts:

Weavers - Claire MacLeod 286-1696; the Rug Hookers - Marie Collison 286-2649; the Potters - Barb Peel 457-2752; the Sketchers - Chuck O'Neil 457-2364; the Knitters - Mimi Carson 286-1218; the Concert Series - Ruth Still 754-2602; the Choral Society - Marilyn Stouffer 489-2395; the Happy Ribbers - June Beeney 286-1774 and the Writers - Leo Dobrzensky 457-1251.

Some groups meet regularly every month, others more or less than this. Interesting lively people of all ages, they will add spice and variety to your life!

Board scans province for new principal

The Haliburton County Board of Education will advertize on a province-wide basis in seeking a replacement for HHSS principal Andy Hemphill. The board agreed to seek candidates from across Ontario at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Hemphill announced his intention to resign last month.

The board has been under some criticism lately for only advertising openings in key positions within the board. An informal poll of the board members indicated that only three felt there was no need to go outside the system to find a suitable candidate.

Trustee David Villard said he had spoken with the staff at the high school and they felt confident they could compete with candidates from outside the system for the position.

A committee of the board will meet during the next month to draft the criteria and the procedures to be followed for hiring the new principal. The board is expected to review the details at its February meeting.

More news on trade deal

by Bill Scott, M.P.

On January 14, the Department of Finance released an economic assessment of the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement. According to the study, the Agreement will raise real incomes by 2.5 per cent, and lead to the creation of 120,000 net new jobs.

The Agreement will raise Canadian real income by at least 2.5 per cent in the long term - once the economy has fully adjusted to the free trade environment. This represents a permanent increase in total real income of $12-billion annually in today's dollars, or the equivalent of about $450 per year for every Canadian.

The estimated 2.5 per cent real income gain understates the benefits from the agreement because the analysis does not capture: liberalization of trade and investment services; liberalization of cross-border investment flows in general; the more secure access to U.S. markets; or the dynamic effects of free trade in the form of a more innovative and technologically advanced economy.

The agreement will create 120,000 new jobs by 1993.. The number of new jobs will continue to grow as the agreement is fully implemented.. Not only will new jobs be created, but the agreement will help to maintain existing jobs. For example, without this agreement, increased U.S. protectionism could lead up to a loss of 75,000 jobs.

The 2.5 per cent rise in real income will be distributed evenly across regions with gains ranging from 2.3 per cent in the Atlantic region and Quebec to 2.7 per cent in Ontario.

The number of required job changes will be small compared to the changes that normally occur. In a typical year, more than 4 million Canadians change their jobs. The Prime Minister recently announced the establishment of an Advisory Council on Adjustment to advise on the need for any modifications to existing programs to help Canadians take advantage of the new opportunities provided by the agreement.

Student jobs

Employment and Immigration Canada has once again launched its Career Oriented Summer Employment Program for 1988.

COESP is a program whereby departments of the Federal Government offer post-secondary students an opportunity to obtain summer employment in positions related to their course of study. It is an opportunity for students to acquire working experience in their chosen academic field. This national program, operating in every province and in both territories, will again assist young Canadians in acquiring valuable career-oriented training.

Application forms are now available to the public. Students wishing to apply should report to a Canada Employment Centre on Campus at a post-secondary institution or at the placement office of an institution where EIC is not represented. The deadline for applying is February 29.

Winter Carnival

With the outside temperature hovering at about 50 degrees F, the weather was not too co-operative for this year's Kinsmen Winter Carnival. However, with a wide array of events and activities, it was a fun-filled weekend nonetheless. The carnival started off Friday night with the crowning of this year's Carnival Queens and Princesses as 29 young ladies were vying for the honour. The following are the winners in this year's Carnival Queen Contests: Senior Queen - Jackie Kleihauer, Senior Princess - Tanya Willison, Junior Queen - Lisa Holland, Junior Princess - Jennifer Murison. Last year's queens, Cindy Dunham and Tanya Woodcock also took part in the ceremonies, passing the robes of office to this year's winners. The two young ladies chosen by their peers as Miss Congeniality were Kim McCracken and Teresa Short. The figure skaters also added greatly to the entertainment Friday when the Highlands Silver Blades performed for the appreciative audience. Those taking part included Stephanie Sales, Jeremy Scheffee, Simon Reid, Jody Reid, Meaghan Obee, Jaime Kent, Marita Schrader, Lisa Ranson, Kyla Grexton, Cori Barkwell, Kristi Barkwell, Jennifer Turner, Nickie Dollo and Janene Garbutt.

Children of all ages were delighted when the annual Winter Carnival Parade began through the downtown area. We were as always, charmed by the many youngsters who show such excitement and enthusiasm for taking part in the parade and although there were not as many participants as in the past years, it was still a comfort to see tradition is alive and well in Minden. The Happy Hylander says it all.

Staanworth funding assured

A non-profit housing group in Anson, Hindon and Minden Township has received approval to develop 32 residential units under a federal-provincial housing program.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township is one of 79 Ontario municipalities receiving allocations for the production of 6,990 non-profit housing units for 1988. Since 1986, when Ontario began administering the program, more than 13,500 units have been committed across the province, for a total of almost 20,500 units by the end of 1988.

The announcement was made recently by Bill Scott, MP for Victoria-Haliburton, on behalf of Stewart McInnes, federal Minister responsible for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), and John Eakins, Minister of Municipal Affairs and MPP for Victoria-Haliburton, on behalf of Chaviva Hosek, Minister of Housing for Ontario.

"Joint efforts such as this effectively strengthen the shared commitment of the federal and provincial governments to work together toward the provision of decent, affordable housing for the people of Ontario," Mr. Scott said.

Mr. Eakins said: "Increasing the stock of permanent, affordable housing each year is the immediate aim of this government. It's through the working partnership of the Ministry of Housing and CMHC that we will be able to make significant progress toward that goal."

The Staanworth Municipal Non-Profit Housing Corporation will develop 32 units for senior citizens on Prentice Street.

Under the program, municipal, private and co-operative non-profit groups are able to develop building projects to house people in need.

The federal and provincial governments share the cost of subsidizing rent-geared-to-income housing for households unable to find adequate, suitable accommodation in their communities for less than 30 per cent of their income.

The federal government, through CMHC, pays 60 per cent of the cost of these subsidies, while the provincial government pays 40 per cent.

Subsidies for other rent-geared-to-income units, as well as all market rental units, are paid by the province alone.

The total annual cost of subsidizing the new units across Ontario is expected to be about $50 million a year.

Based on the particular needs of the local community, the project sponsor will determine the appropriate mix of income groups for each individual development.

Those eligible for rent-geared-to-income housing are low-income families, senior citizens, and the physically, developmentally and psychiatrically-handicapped capable of living independently.

On a province-wide basis, funding is being approved for a number of non-profit and co-operative buildings designed exclusively to accommodate low-income single tenants as well.

And finally, a portion of the units produced under the program will be allocated to groups providing housing for people requiring some form of support care.

Parents learn to spot signs of drug use

Everyone knows the signs of drunkenness but would you know the signs of "chemical intoxication"? Would you know if someone that you care for is using drugs? Do you know what some of the drugs look like?

A special program on the subject will be presented by Minden OPP Const. Mike Maybee - at the Minden Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library to begin at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 9.

The session will be illustrated and will provide an opportunity to examine some materials or ask individual or group questions in an attempt to improve the drug awareness of our community. Everyone is invited to attend.

Workshop helps 'break the silence'

Personal Safety For Your Child, a workshop for parents, is going to be held in Haliburton County during Break the Silence month in February.

The workshop, conducted by local social service professionals, has been designed to support parents in their relationships with their children and their personal safety. The 90-minute workshop includes a film, a panel presentation, and plenty of time for discussion of parents' concerns and their issues within the community.

In order to reach as many parents as possible, the sponsors of the workshop, the Haliburton Child Abuse Prevention Committee, have scheduled three workshops in the County.

The first will be held Tuesday, February 2 at St. Paul's Anglican Church basement in Minden from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The second workshop will be held at J.D. Hodgson School in Haliburton on Monday, February 8 from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

And the last workshop will be held at the Lloyd Watson Community Centre in Wilberforce on Tuesday, February 16 from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

There is no cost to any parent attending the workshop at any of the locations, and free child care will be available.

Dear Readers:

We are having lots of snow but it's not such bad weather after all.

The ladies from the Kinette Club of Minden served us our afternoon tea on Thursday. It was really delicious. Thank you again. We do appreciate it.

Mrs. Janette Lywood of Coboconk was in on Thursday to call on Hazel Hoskin and others.

Mrs. Coburn came on Friday afternoons to sing for us. We always appreciate her taking the time to do this, we enjoy it very much. Thanks again.

Mr. Samuelson leaves on Monday, January 25 for Sudbury. We do wish him luck and hope he will like this new position.

Chapel service on Tuesday morning was by the minister from the Baptist Church, Pastor Doug Kent and on Sunday evening by the Rev. J. Burgess with Maron Rose playing for the hymns.

Mr. Don Finn was in on Wednesday to have lunch with Angus Coulter.

My two daughters Anna Gordon and Jean Hewitt were in for a short visit on Friday with me. I often wonder if the folks outside of Hyland Crest realize how much it means to us to have folks drop in, if only for a short time. It means a lot, believe me. Thank God for those outside. Quilting knitting and sewing is the order of the day around here.

Movies last week were "Wildlife Scenes".

We have two new residents at Hyland Crest. We welcome Mrs. Alice Clucas and Mrs. Nancy Carefoot. We hope they will like it here.

Au revoir

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Horticulturists to hear Dr. Heyes speak on lilies

- submitted -

February 2 is ground hog day! After a long nap this chap awakens, comes out and looks around! February 2 is also the Minden and District Horticultural Annual Meeting. After a couple of months of rest, it's time for gardeners to rouse and get into the swing of things again. We begin with the Annual Meeting which takes place at St. Paul's Parish Hall, February 2 beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a Pot Luck Supper (one item per family).

After a short meeting we will be pleased to have Dr. Robert Heyes of Haliburton speak on Lilies. With the wide variety of lilies now, we are sure to gain a wealth of information and help from Dr. Heyes.

Also Marion Hill will present her pictures of local 1987 gardens - some excellent sides, and who knows - you may see your own garden on the screen!

There will be several draws for prizes, so come out and enjoy a delightful evening; meet old friends and make new ones; enjoy speakers and films.

The ground hog sometimes goes back for an extended nap! Not the gardener! This is the time to plan next year's garden! It may seem early - but no Select the seeds, the new perennials, or try something new. This is a challenge! Whether it is flowers or vegetables it's all so interesting. Perhaps you have a wee nook in your yard which could be turned into a "Little bit of Heaven".

These too are the days when you can build that new trellis; a bird bath; and plan for a water area in your garden, there are a lot of possibilities! The Minden Society plans to choose a flower emblem soon. If you would like to submit the name of a flower, do this at the annual meeting. There will be a box there to hold these. From these the directors will choose one that would make a good logo.

A bus trip is being planned for March to visit the Toronto Garden Show at Casa Loma. For this show, hundreds of flowers are now being forced for bloom at that time. A trip of this kind gives you a real lift.

Minden hosts the Spring Seminar, April 30. More about that later.

We are looking ahead to the Ontario Convention in Ottawa in June.

By joining this Organization, many doors are open to new ideas. So on February 2 come out and join us as we begin another year of gardening activities. See you there!

Is your home in need of major repairs but with your income you feel it is out of the question?

Perhaps you could be eligible for the Canada Mortgage and Housing Program called RRAP, designed to assist low income homeowners make necessary repairs to their dwelling.

Loans are available to upgrade the structure, electrical wiring, heating and plumbing. Overcrowding may also be considered.

Depending upon the household income and the continuous occupancy of the home for a period of five years, a portion of the debt could be forgiven.

Loans are based on current interest rates and can be paid over a period of twenty years.

If you have or intend to have a disabled person in your home, financial assistance may be available to improve accessibility and livability in the home.

For further information regarding the RRAP program, or if you have a question you would like answered, contact the Haliburton County Information Centre situated in the Drag River Municipal Building, Haliburton. Our centre is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or you may call 457-2733.

For residents of Minden, our office is located in the municipal building Milne Street, open every Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 286-4100.

By volunteering your skills and talent add to the betterment of our community. Contact your nearest information centre for further details.

Well, even though exams just finished today, people still celebrated Carnival Weekend in full colour. Today, the last of the exams were written and fortunately we will have a three day weekend, February 5,6 and 7. Thank goodness for P.D. days!

A new team has been established this year - the downhill racing team. Wearing helmets of pink and blue, they will try to excel at their sport.

The cross-country ski team and our area will be hosting the high school provincial championship competition. The GAA, the Nordic Ski Club and other volunteers will be working to make the mid-February event a success.

A high school squash tournament will take place on Thursday, February 11. Sign up if you'd like to participate.

The volleyball teams will be very active in the next few weeks. Stay tuned for more information.

Here's hoping that everyone had a great set of exams and a great time at the winter carnival as well as an enjoyable groundhog day.

IN MEMORIAM

LUKE: In loving memory of my husband J. Edward Luke who was called home January 31, 1982 and our granddaughter, a former Miss Easter Seals, Terri-Maureen Luke was called away January 13, 1982, daughter of Jack and Doreen Luke.

Please keep them in thy keeping dear Father
Until we meet them on the golden shore
Then may we see and love them
As we did in the years before.

Lovingly remembered by Edith Luke and family.
